American Ethanol is proud to be a partner with Richard Childress Racing and driver Austin Dillon for the 2012 NASCAR Nationwide Series™ Season. Austin Dillon, 2011 NASCAR Camping World Truck Series Champion, will drive the iconic No. 3 Chevrolet during the 2012 NASCAR Nationwide Series™ season. American Ethanol serves as the primary sponsor for six races as well as one race in the NASCAR Sprint Cup Series in 2012. He ran the American Ethanol No. 3 on track for the first time at Las Vegas Motor Speedway on March 10th.

"I'm proud to carry the American Ethanol colors in NASCAR," said Dillon. "Growth Energy is committed to clean air, and as an avid outdoorsman I truly appreciate their desire to protect our nation's air and water for future generations. I commend the work they do and I am looking forward to representing American Ethanol, Growth Energy and the National Corn Growers Association."

Kenny Wallace

Driver of the Nationwide Series No. 09 American Ethanol/Family Farmers Camry

Kenny Wallace, who notched 11 top-ten finishes last year, will drive the No. 09 Toyota Camry in the NASCAR Nationwide Series for RAB Racing. American Ethanol partnered with Wallace for the Daytona 500, and will partner with him for five races in the Nationwide Series.

"I'm honored to represent American Ethanol. I not only talk about American Ethanol, I truly believe in it. I've been to the farms, I've met the families, I've been to the ethanol plants, and I've been in the hallways of the U.S. Senate in Washington, D.C., in support of it. I believe it is our job to cut down on dependency of foreign oil, and American Ethanol is a major part of that," Wallace said.
